How to Choose the Right LED Display

Every project has different requirements. The right LED display should be selected based on several important factors.

Application - Determine whether the screen is required for advertising, retail, corporate communication, events, entertainment, or digital signage.

Viewing Distance - Pixel pitch should be selected according to how close the audience will be to the screen.

Indoor or Outdoor Location - Outdoor installations require displays designed for outdoor conditions and appropriate brightness.

Screen Size - The display size should match the available installation space and expected viewing distance.

Brightness & Image Quality - The right brightness and resolution help deliver clear and impactful content in the intended environment.
